Gir National Park and Wildlife Sanctuary 3 Nights

Located in Gujarat's southern (Kathiawar) peninsula, Gir National Park's dry deciduous forests are well known as the last refuge of the Asiatic Lion. This subspecies of the Lion, on the brink of extinction a few decades ago, now thrives in these well protected forests and are typically easily seen in the park's tourism zone. Gir is also well known for its healthy population of Leopard and is possibly India's best park to observe and photograph these normally elusive cats. Other interesting mammals found in these dry forests include species like the Four-horned Antelope and Striped Hyena that are typically difficult to see in wetter forests of Peninsular India. The large park (by Indian standards) also protects a wide variety of flora and fauna, including over 250 birds, a large population of Mugger Crocodile and other representatives of both the wetter forests of peninsular India as well as arid habitats of India's north-west.

FYI and Guidelines

1. Gujarat in general and the areas surrounding Gir are politically stable, safe to travel in, generally crime free and very tourist friendly.
2. Weather updates based on dates of travel
3. Please bring a pair Binoculars to best appreciate animals that do allow close approach. We will have a pair of Binocs to share among us, but we recommend that you bring your own for more timely viewing
4. It is best to wear dull shades of greens and browns (clothing) to blend into the environment.
5. A hat and sunblock are recommended and sunglasses will be useful.
6. Please bring essential medication with you, since the local outlets will not always carry what you are looking for. Do check with your doctor on medication and medical safety before you travel to the region.
