Kalakad-Mundanthurai Tiger Reserve (KMTR) - Sengaltheri 2 nights

Please see <http://travel.outlookindia.com/article.aspx?262065> to read an article, based on a guided tour we conducted for Outlook Traveller Magazine to KMTR in Sep 2009

Summary

KMTR is located among the southern most ranges (Ashambu Hills) of the Western Ghats and as such, it is the southern most range of some of India's megafauna, including the tiger and elephant. However, KMTR is better appreciated for its biodiversity rich, contiguous tracts of old-growth wet-evergreen forests and stunning, often mystical, mountain scenery. The park contains many biotic treasures including an amazing diversity of flora, herpetofauna, small vertebrates and invertebrates which are often unique to the Western Ghats. KMTR is also a well known centre for plant endemism. Bird diversity, including ecoregion endemics, is excellent, as is typical for other Western Ghats locations with similar habitat diversity. Notably, the rare oriental bay owl, known from very sporadic records from northeast India and the Western Ghats, was recently photographed in the reserve.

Sengaltheri (800m), is classically KMTR - an isolated wilderness, located on a grassy hill side surrounded by evergreen and moist deciduous forest and grassland. A stroll through the vast evergreen forests of the locations could reveal real rarities such as Lion-tailed Macaque, Brown Mongoose, Brown Palm Civet, Nilgiri Marten, Jerdon's Baza and Blue-eared Kingfisher to name a few - species generally restricted to mature, dense rainforest. The grasslands and deciduous forests offer better visibility and large mammals, including Gaur, Sambar and Elephant are often and Wild Dog and Leopard less frequently seen here. A striking variety of arboreal animals, including flying lizards, gliding frogs, snakes, squirrels and primates, adapted to life in a forests of gaint trees, are among the other highlights of this magical location.

The tour will be led by an experienced naturalist and the team will be ably guided and supported by the 'Kaani's', an indigenous forest hunter-gatherer tribe who have an intimate knowledge of the reserve's biodiversity and natural locations. An element of ecotourism is built into this tour - by employing the services of the local tribals as support staff we will contribute to their economic well being, consequently reducing their dependence on forest resources for sustenance and providing an economic incentive to conserve the local biodiversity.

- pack as though you were out camping, i.e. include your sleeping bags, towels etc into your backpack.
2. Food will be simple and largely locally available vegetarian fare.
 3. Weather: Updates based on dates of travel
 4. Please bring your binoculars (at least 8x magnification, ideally 10x). While much of the biodiversity in the park can be enjoyed without a pair of binoculars, they would certainly come in handy for closer observations of fauna that do not allow close approach.
 5. A considerable amount of walking around will be involved during this tour. Some of the terrain will be mountainous and uneven. It is essential that you wear a very comfortable pair of trekking shoes and full pants during our forays into the wild. We expect that all tour participants are in good physical condition. Please be advised that we could be upto 3hrs away from the nearest medical facility.
 6. A hat and sunblock are highly recommended. We also suggest that you carry insect repellents and anti-allergy creams/medication. Please bring essential medication with you.
